HONGKONG, AUGUST 19TH, 1889. Tes drainage of the Colony, must be placed under the control of the Sanitary, Board, by steps the immediate object to be agitated This has been becoming more and more sident for months past, and the experience of the past week has conclusively shown that Legislative Council amending the Public it is the only practical way out of the existing | Health Act by increasing the powers of difficulty. The professional qualifications of the Board. the gentlemen in the Government service at pesent responsible for the main drainage are unimpeachable, but the public declines, and rightly, declines, to accord to their opinions the quality of infallibility. The main point to be insisted upon in that the executive control of the drainage works of the colony must be vested in the Sanitary authority. When this is conceded it will be time enough to consider questions of detail. The question may be asked : are we more likely to get an effective avatem of drainage under the direction of a budy of men admit- were 31 deaths among the British and Foreign to back and nearly in a nude state were direction of a budy of men admit- were 31 deaths among the British and Foreign to back and nearly in a nude state we tedly unconversant with the subject than by community, of which 19 were among the civil hours floating about among the shipping. leaving it entirely to professional men with special training? Drainage is not a subject understood by every one. Of this we had an instance at the meeting of the Peak residents on Friday afternoon, Mr. GRINVILLE SHARP, a large property owner, a man of great experience and in most cases of sound judgment, gravely suggested tha what was the matter with the Prak drainage was that the pipes were too small and that they ought to be large enough to admit rain water; which would serre to flush them. What about the many months in the year when there is no rain? The great object to be kept in view in all drainage works is to accelerate the current as much as possible so that the foul matter may be discharged before it has time to ferment. With a given quantity of sewage the current will of course wary in proportion to the size of the channel in which it runs, just as the current of a river is stronger in's narrow pass than over shallows. If the rain were a in this district are of a superior class, tradesmen onstant factor it could be turned to use in mostly, possessed of means, " warm men and connection with the sewerage system, but being an uncertain quantity, which would and for any other purpose than that of contain- drainage is to exclude the rain altogether and make the sewers of such size as will give a self cleansing velocity to the current of newage running in them. The preliminary return of the British army is always an interesting document. That for average strength of the army last year was 211,105 of all ranks, made up of 7,332 officers, 682 warrant officers, and the rest non-commissioned officers and men. The total strength of the army at home on January 1, 1889, was 103.047. Egypt took 3.389; the Colonies, 28.941; and India, 74,045. There were wanting to complete establishments on Junuary 1, 1889, 1,326 the largest numbers under this head being 360 in the case of Colonial Corps, 340 for Garrison Artillery, 195 for Foot Guards, 171 for Royal Engineers, and 145 for Boys! This leaves a total deficiency of 626. A table showing the average strength of the army for twenty years gives a very satisfactory result. It appears from this that last year's numbers were considerably in advance of those of any previous period. But though the total strength has increased, the number of officers has fallen off considerably, a fact upon which economical members of larlisment have reason to congratulate themselves. The total number of recruits who joined the recruiting months were January, when 3,001 were enrolled; February, 2,323; and November, 2.518; the worst being April and May, 1.598 and the regimental district organisation, of whom 7.083 were passed into the ranks of their local

The depths of the ocean, not far from the Gailey Head, on the west coast of Ireland, are being explored by a body of divers in search of a long lost treasure, amounting to between £40,000 and £60,000. It appears that so far back as twenty years ago a large ship, named the Crescent City, was wrecked at the spot mentioned. and sank in sixteen fathoms of water, with a large amount of specie in gold on board. Short. ly afterwards divers were sent down, who succeeded, after much difficulty, in securing £16,000, but were unable to get near the remaining portion of the gold in consequence of the then intact state of the ship's hull lying in such deep water. Further attempts were then abandoned by the divers, and nothing since was done to recover the balance of the specie until quite recently, whom one of the divers, Mr. O'Hara, Liverpool, who surveyed the Orescent. He has an efficient staff of divers under his command to explore the bull of the vessel, which he considers to be completely broken up by the time; and therefore feels confideent of getting possession of the sunkon treasure and retiring an independent man.

Boards each 100 feet long and six feet in width would be a sight worth seeing, but piles made of such timber are common at the mills in Puget Sound, North Pacific. According to a traveller just returned from a visit to that coast boards of those dimensions, and without a knot in them, are common cuts from the gigantic fir trees of the Puget Sound forests. These trees grow to the enermous height of 250 feet, and the forests are so vest that, although the saw mills have been ripping 500,000,000 feet of lumber out of them every year for ten years, the spaces made by these tremendous inroads seem no more than garden patches. Paget Sound has 1,800 miles of shore line, and all along this line, and extending thence on both sides miles and miles farther than the eye can see, it one vast and almost unbroken forest of these enormous trees. There is nothing like it anywhere on the Pavific coast. An official estimate places the amount of standing timber in that area at 500,000,000,000 feet, representing a constant supply for one thousand yours even at the enormous rate the timber is now being felled and sawed. The timber belt covers 30,(a) ,000 acros of Washington Territory, an area equal to the States of Vermont, Massachusetts, Connectiont, and New Hampshire. The markets for the Puget Sound lumber are entirely foreign, being South America, Australia, Central America, and the Pacific coast islands.

The Supreme Court of Indiana was recently called upon to review a non-suit in an action brought to recover damages for being struck down on a sidewalk by a bicycle rider. The trial court had held that bicycling was a form of pedestrianating and that the bicyclers had as much right on the sidewalk as any pedestrian. The appeal from the non-suit was argued in the forencon. When the court adjourned for dinner. Judges Coffey and Berkshire started to walk to their hotel, and as they were passing out of the capitol grounds a clumsy bicycle rider run into them, knocking both down, and badly bruising the former. This practical argument had such a convincing effect on the minds of the learned judges that they immediately overruled their forth that a person who "rudely and recklessly rides a bicycle against a man standing on a sidewalk is responsible for damages for assault and battery. After quoting an Indiana law forbidding persons from riding or driving on the side walks, the Court says :- "If sidewalks are exclusively for the use of footmen, then bicycles, if they are vehicles, must not be ridden along them, since to affirm that sidewalks are exclusively for the use of footmen necessarily implies that they cannot be travelled by bioyo'es. It would be palpable contradiction to affirm that footmen have the exclusive right to use the sidewalks and yet concede that persons not travelling as pedestrians may also rightfully use them. We think, however, that a bicycle must be regarded as a vehicle within the meaning of the law."

reason that, until shortly before his death, he had never paid off his early liabilities. The fortune left him by Mr. Brydges Williams cle red them off, and he paid every penny he Lady Beaconsfield's fortune was hers only for her life, and she was not able to leave him snything of importance, but in the early part of his married life she assisted him with his election expenses, and, except for his marriage, the probability is he could never have stemmed the tide of money difficulties which always hampered him. In the first days of their friendship Lady Beaconsfield must have helped him largely, for a circumstantial story was told by the Conservative agent at Maidstone, for which place Lord Beaconsfield sat-that at his first election, when things looked bad for the Conservative candidate, and the Liberals were and noises in the head of 23 years' standing spending their money freely. Mr Disraeli came by a simple remedy, will send a description of it getting him in.

WITE THE PUNTI AND MANDARIN PRONUNCIATION. An Anglo-Chinese Dictionary, published at Daily Press Office, Hongkong. For comprehensiveness and practical service this Work stands unrivalled. All the new words which the Chinese have of late years been compelled to coin to express the numerous objects in machinery, photography, telegraphy, and in science generally, which the rapid advance of foreign relations has imposed upon them, are for students of a most instructive nature. Both day before. the Court and Punti pronunciations are given | 8.00 A.M .- Posting of Prices Current and Cirthe accents being carefully marked on the best principle hitherto attained. The typography

Chinese and English type correspond in the size of body, thereby effecting a vast economy of space, achieving a clearness not previously attained, and dispensing with those vast margins and vacant spaces which have heretofore characterized Chinese publications. To illustrate the vast scope of the work the after which hour they may be sent or board following facts are submitted for consideration: this the same late fee. this work contains more than 50,000 English words, and upwards of 600,000 Chinese chargeters.
